Patrick Daly

President and CEO

Mr. Daly has more than 25 years of experience in the medical device industry and has held leadership positions in sales, marketing, international marketing and positions of increasing responsibility throughout various Johnson & Johnson companies including Ethicon Endo-Surgery, Ethicon Products, J&J Medical Australia/New Zealand, and J&J Medical Asia Pacific. Mr. Daly started Cohera Medical, Inc[®] in January 2006 and led successful funding rounds of over $125M in capital from private investors and private equity to facilitate Cohera Medical's two lead products; TissuGlu[®] Surgical Adhesive and Syllys[®] Surgical Sealant through the FDA approval process for medical devices and commercialization in the U.S and EU. Cohera has over 70 patents issued and pending, and Mr. Daly holds a patent for the surgical sealant technology. Prior to starting Cohera Medical and his work at Johnson & Johnson, Mr. Daly spent over four years on active duty in the U.S. Army as a field artillery officer. He is a graduate of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point where he received a Bachelor of Science Foreign Area Studies (Latin America). He played varsity lacrosse during his four years at West Point and was an All-American. Mr. Daly currently represents the medical device industry by serving on the board of directors for AdvaMed (Advanced Medical Technology Association) as well as chairman of the Accel Board for smaller companies with revenue less than $100M. His not for profit board membership includes The Johnny Mac Soldiers Fund (JMSF), (www.johnnymac.org) a 501(c)(3) non-profit committed to helping veterans and their families through education.
