

Susan Van Meter serves as President of the American Clinical Laboratory Association (ACLA). ACLA is the national trade association representing leading laboratories that deliver essential diagnostic health information to patients and providers by advocating for policies that expand access to the highest quality clinical laboratory services, improve patient outcomes, and advance the next generation of personalized care. Prior to joining ACLA in 2022, Van Meter was Executive Director of AdvaMedDx, representing manufacturers of in vitro diagnostic (IVD) clinical tests. Previously, she held roles as Senior Vice President of Federal Relations at the Healthcare Association of New York State, representing New York hospitals and health systems, and in the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services' Office of Legislation. Van Meter holds a B.A. from Villanova University and an M.A. from Boston University.
