

Holly Ahern, MS, MT(ASCP)
Professor Emerita of Microbiology, SUNY Adirondack
Chief Scientific Officer, Aces Diagnostics

Holly Ahern is a scientist and nationally recognized expert in Lyme and tick-borne diseases, with over three decades of experience in microbiology education and clinical diagnostics. As a scientist and Lyme disease patient advocate, Holly has served on state and federal government committees, including the New York State Lyme and Tickborne Disease Working Group and the US Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) Tickborne Disease Working Group. In her current position of Chief Scientific Officer at Aces Diagnostics, she leads scientific strategy, publication development, and external engagement to support the company's flagship diagnostic test for Lyme disease, LymeSeek.