

Dr. Rachel Brem is an internationally recognized breast cancer physician, researcher, and advocate dedicated to advancing early detection and improving outcomes. She is Co-Founder and Chief Medical Officer of Brem Foundation to Defeat Breast Cancer and serves as Professor and Vice Chair Emeritus at The George Washington University.

Dr. Brem has authored more than 140 peer-reviewed publications and has been instrumental in translating innovative breast imaging technologies from bench to bedside, now widely used in clinical practice. An experienced board member across public, private, and nonprofit sectors, she brings deep expertise at the intersection of medicine, industry, and advocacy.

A leading voice on breast cancer and healthcare disparities, Dr. Brem has received numerous honors, including recognition by Newsweek as one of America's Best Cancer Doctors. In 2023, she co-authored No Longer Radical: Understanding Mastectomies and Choosing the Breast Cancer Care That's Right for You, a practical guide to prevention, detection, and treatment.

Dr. Brem is a passionate advocate for the earliest diagnosis of breast cancer—which dramatically improves mortality rates and health outcomes.