Roger Sherman is the Chief of the Wireless Telecommunications Bureau at the Federal Communications Commission. Until November 2013, he served as the Democratic Chief Counsel to the House Committee on Energy and Commerce and as Democratic Staff Director to its Subcommittee on Communications and Technology. During the 111th Congress (2009-2011), Mr. Sherman was Chief Counsel for Communications, Technology, and the Internet, and during the 110th Congress (2007-2009) he was Deputy Chief Counsel at the Committee on Oversight and Government Reform. Mr. Sherman also worked for Representative Henry Waxman as a legislative assistant from 1990-1992 and as a legislative aide to Senator Alan Cranston from 1989-1990. Prior to returning to Capitol Hill in 2007, Mr. Sherman spent 10 years working on wireless issues as a Director of Regulatory Affairs and Senior Attorney at Sprint Corporation. He also practiced communications law at the firm of Wiley, Rein from 1995-1997. Mr. Sherman has a B.A. from Amherst College and a J.D. from Harvard Law School.
