David A. Gross

David is one of the world's foremost experts on international telecommunications, having addressed the United Nations (UN) General Assembly and led more U.S. delegations to major international telecommunication conferences than anyone else in modern history. Drawing on his more than 30 years of experience as a lawyer, global policymaker, and corporate executive, David assists U.S. companies seeking to enter or expand international businesses. He also advises non-U.S. companies, and industry organizations seeking to invest in, monitor, and understand the U.S. and international markets, as well as national governments. David advises companies and others on international and domestic telecoms, Internet, and high-tech strategy focusing on both specific markets and international organizations such as the International Telecommunication Union (ITU), the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD), the Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC), as well as many regional organizations.

Representative Experience

- Chaired the U.S. delegations to ITU Plenipotentiary Conferences (2002, 2006), ITU World Telecommunication Development Conferences (2002, 2006), and ITU World Telecommunication Standardization Assemblies (2004, 2008).
- Led U.S. delegations to three APEC Ministerial Meetings in Shanghai, Lima, and Bangkok.
- Head U.S. government negotiator and head of delegation for the multilateral preparatory conferences for both phases of the UN's "Heads of State" World Summit on the Information Society and co- led the U.S. delegation to the formal Summits in Geneva (2003) and Tunis (2005). These were the largest UN Summits ever held with almost 20,000 delegates and a large number of heads of states and government.
- Served as a member of the UN's Information and Communications Technologies Task Force (2001-2006).
- Conducted bilateral discussions at senior levels with representatives of more than 70 countries.
