

Biography for Congressional Hearing 6/13/19

Crystal Ellis is a mom, elementary educator, and child safety advocate, representing Parents Against Tip-overs, an organization of parents that have all lost children to furniture tip-overs. She has been advocating for safer furniture, since the death of her son, Camden Ellis, in June 2014. She is a graduate of Whitman College and the University of Washington. She has two daughters that she hopes, through her advocacy and safety work, to keep safe.