

Jeff Myers
Senior Director, Intellectual Property
Apple Inc.

During the last 9 years, Jeff has had the privilege of protecting Apple's breakthrough products and innovations. He initially served as the head of patents & designs and presently as senior director of the intellectual property & licensing team. Previously, he was Adobe's Chief Patent Counsel and spent over a decade handling intellectual property matters at several other companies and firms. Jeff holds a law degree from the Northwestern School of Law of Lewis and Clark College, and a Bachelor's degree from the University of Washington.