

About Tim Kendall:

Tim Kendall is the CEO of Moment, an app that helps adults and children use their phones in healthier ways. Tim is the former President of Pinterest -- at various points, he led product development, engineering, marketing and sales. Prior to Pinterest, Tim was Facebook's Director of Monetization, where he led the development of Facebook's advertising business. Tim serves on the board of UCSF Benioff Children's Hospital, where he's recently focused on their mental health strategy. He earned his engineering degree and MBA from Stanford University.
