

Josh Golin is the Executive Director of Fairplay, the leading independent watchdog of the children's media and marketing industries. Fairplay is committed to building a world where kids can be kids, free from the false promises of marketers and the manipulations of Big Tech. Through corporate campaigns and strategic regulatory filings, Fairplay has changed the child-targeted marketing and data collection practices of some of the world's biggest companies.

Josh has worked at Fairplay since 2003 in a variety of capacities before becoming Executive Director in 2015. He has appeared on Good Morning America, Today, NPR, and Fox & Friends and is frequently quoted in major publications like The New York Times and The Washington Post. He speaks regularly to parents, policymakers, and industry about how to create a healthier media environment for children.

Josh holds MAs in Communications from the University of Iowa and Child Development from Tufts University. Prior to his work at Fairplay, he worked at Miramax Films and as a first grade teacher in New York City