Ernest Rosenberg
President and Chief Executive Officer
American Cleaning Institute®*

Ernie Rosenberg was first employed by the American Cleaning Institute® (then known as the Soap and Detergent Association) in November 1999 as its President and became its CEO in 2003. In 2010, SDA became the American Cleaning Institute®.

Mr. Rosenberg has been a senior environmental, health and safety manager in both government and the private sector since 1975, largely focusing on chemical management.

He has served as the first chief of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency branch reviewing new chemicals (1979-1981), acting deputy director of the Chemical Control Division (1981), and chief of staff of EPA's automotive emission control and fuel economy office (1975 to 1979). After EPA, managed a full range of environmental, health and safety issues for two oil, chemical and mining companies, Atlantic Richfield (1981-1985) and Occidental Petroleum (as a consultant from 1985 to 1989 and as a Vice President in its Washington office (1989-1999). While at those companies, he was a leader of business coalitions addressing amendments to the Clean Air Act, the Clean Water Act and the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act. He also represented those companies at the World Environment Center, the International Environmental Forum and the Corporate Council of Resources for the Future.

He chairs the working group responsible for international product policies (including chemical management) at the U.S. Council for International Business and in that capacity, has represented USCIB and the International Chamber of Commerce in negotiations for the UN's Strategic Approach to International Chemicals Management (SAICM) and at the Asia Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC) Chemicals Dialogue. He formerly served on the Board of the Environmental Law Institute.

He serves as vice chair of the board of the National Association of Manufacturers' Council of Manufacturing Associations and on the board of the Canadian Consumer Specialty Products Association.

Mr. Rosenberg has a Juris Doctor degree from the New York University School of Law and a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Rochester (New York). He lives with his wife, Karen, three dogs and two cats in McLean, Virginia..

Mr. Rosenberg is a frequent author and speaker, addressing governmental and business organizations in Europe and Asia as well as around the United States.

The American Cleaning Institute® (ACI) is the trade association representing the $30 billion U.S. cleaning products market. ACI members include the formulators of soaps, detergents, and general cleaning products used in household, commercial, industrial and institutional settings; companies that supply ingredients and finished packaging for these products; and oleochemical producers. ACI and its members are dedicated to improving health and the quality of life through sustainable cleaning products and practices. ACI's mission is to support the sustainability of the cleaning products industry through research, education, outreach and science-based advocacy.
