Additional Questions for the Record

The Honorable Tim Murphy

1. We understand that a number of people want to increase the amount of individual grants. What would be the impact of increasing the limit for remediation grants?
  - A. Would increasing the amount of remediation grants negatively affect the leveraging of federal brownfields money?
2. With all of the Administration's regulations affecting coal-fired electricity generation, has EPA analyzed the extent to which there are coal fired generating facilities that are closing and not converting to another fuel, that will likely become sites that could be cleaned up and redeveloped under the Brownfields Program?
  - A. What is EPA doing to address the issue that there will soon be all of these closed plants?
  - B. Does EPA have any plans or ideas on how to manage these sites under the Brownfields Program?
3. There is a bill pending in the Senate right now on brownfields – S. 1479. Some of the changes in that bill require EPA to consider certain types of grants – for example, waterfront grants and clean energy grants. Rather than directing EPA to consider certain sites for brownfields funding, shouldn't local communities decide the best end use for a redevelopment project?
  - A. Does EPA already have authority to issue a grant to these types of projects?
