Kirk Johnson is responsible for leading NRECA's legislative and regulatory advocacy efforts, as well as its grass-roots program, coalition development and political action committee. Kirk guides the development of policies and positions the association advocates, and directs the implementation of strategies to secure meaningful results for NRECA's members.

He brings more than a quarter-century of energy policy, advocacy and association leadership to NRECA. Prior to joining NRECA in 2001, he advised U.S. Sen. Kent Conrad, D-N.D., on energy, environment and natural resource issues.

Kirk received his B.A. in political science from Concordia College in Moorhead, Minnesota, and attended graduate school at the University of Minnesota. He is married to Janet Woodka and is an avid golfer who also loves traveling, cooking and spending time at the beach with the family dogs, Gumbo and Roux.
