

BUSINESS MEETING

Thursday, June 28, 2018

U.S. House of Representatives,
Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence,
Washington, D.C.

The committee met, pursuant to call, at 9:04 a.m., in Room HVC-304, Capitol Visitor Center, the Honorable Devin Nunes [chairman of the committee] presiding.

Present: Representatives Nunes, Conaway, King, LoBiondo, Rooney, Ros-Lehtinen, Turner, Wenstrup, Stewart, Crawford, Stefanik, Hurd, Schiff, Himes, Sewell, Carson, Speier, Quigley, Swalwell, Castro, and Heck.

THE CHAIRMAN: The committee will come to order. A quorum being present, the committee will come to order. Without objection, the chair is authorized to declare a recess at any time. As a reminder, even though we are in the committee's closed hearing room, we are currently in open session.

We have one item of business today, the markup of H.R. 6237, the Matthew Young Pollard Intelligence Authorization Act for Fiscal Years 2018 and 2019, including to call to the attention of the House the classified annex and schedule of authorizations.

This bill is named for Matthew Pollard, a former staff member of the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, and a friend of many here on both sides of the aisle. A few short weeks ago, we were saddened to learn of Matt's untimely passing. In addition to his work in the Senate, he was a member of the Army National Guard, a dedicated father. Matt is survived by his mother, three sisters, and his beloved son Bradley. His death is a loss to so many. Therefore, we honor his many contributions to our Nation by naming this year's bill the Matthew Young Pollard Intelligence Authorization Act for Fiscal Years 2018 and 2019.

The annual authorization bill is the primary mechanism for the committee to exercise oversight of the intelligence programs, and it is critical to our oversight efforts that we continue to pass an annual authorization bill. Since 2011, this committee has done great work in enacting annual bipartisan intelligence authorization bills. Last year, the committee passed H.R. 3180 out of the committee and off the floor.

Since both the House and Senate were unsuccessful in approving a conference version of the bill earlier this year, H.R. 6237 encompassed authorizations for fiscal years 2018 and 2019. I am hopeful we will be able to pass a combined Intelligence Authorization Act this year, and continue our longstanding tradition of authorizing the vital intelligence activities of the Intelligence Community.

I look forward to concluding negotiations expeditiously with our friends in the Senate, so we can get this bill to the President and signed into law. This bill is a bipartisan effort. We have worked closely with the minority members to develop both the legislative text and classified annex, and the bill is stronger for it.

Importantly, this bill also continues the committee's commitment to providing the Intelligence Community the resources to accomplish its demanding mission of securing and defending our Nation.

Overall, the funding level authorized by this bill is slightly above the President's budget request. The bill also reflects the committee's determinations of which programs represent the best value for intelligence dollars in a challenging budget environment. Some of those determinations include increased resources for CIA disability programs, increased pay for national security professionals in STEM fields, and management of supply chain risks, among others.

Before we consider the bill, I would like to thank all the members, majority and minority, for their contributions to the committee's oversight over the past year. The hearings, briefings, and oversight visits you all carry out during the year provide the inputs for the authorization and direction in this annual bill.

I would also like to thank the staff for their work preparing the bill. All of our staff worked long hours over weekends diligently preparing the committee's marks this year.

It is easy to forget just how extensive our oversight is across the many departments, agencies, programs within the IC. Our professional staff tracks IC programs day in and day out, maintaining consistent oversight in order to put together a bill that we can all be proud of.

I will now yield to Mr. Schiff for any opening comments he would like to make.

MR. SCHIFF: Mr. Chairman and committee members, two days ago, I had the privilege of spending an hour with several dozen CIA employees during an agency town hall. While the discussion was far-ranging, the questions that most animated the group were those that touched on the working of our committee at this particular moment in our national life. I was candid with the agency officers and discussed the profound disagreements we have had about the Russia investigation and the impact our differences have had on the rest of our work.

Nevertheless, I told them our goal is and must be to compartmentalize those differences and continue with our other work on as bipartisan a basis as possible. I think this bill is a good illustration that we are doing so.

We owe the intelligence professionals nothing less than our best efforts, not only because they put themselves at personal risk every day, but also because their work is so important to the country that it demands nothing less than the shared responsibility and oversight by Congress.

In the spirit of putting national security first, we are pleased to support the Matthew Young Pollard Intelligence Authorization Act for Fiscal Years 2018 and 2019, named for our Senate staff colleague who was a friend to all of us. We urge the bill's adoption by the full committee and its expeditious consideration by the full House.

This committee has a history of producing bipartisan bills even under difficult political circumstances. We build a better product when we work together, and I am pleased that our staffs worked to reach a mutually acceptable final text and to weed out provisions that would have made it impossible to move forward jointly. Our budget directors, lawyers, and monitors have worked together to produce a bill that properly resources and authorizes the Intelligence Community to continue its important work on behalf of the American people, and to meet an array of new and emerging challenges.

Ensuring that our democracies are free from interference or manipulation is essential to our democracy, and the bill includes important provisions that continue that work during the course of our work on the Russia investigation and our normal oversight, to maintain the integrity of our election system.

Ensuring our Intelligence Community is able to meet all threats from terrorism to nation-state actors, the bill authorizes funding across a wide range of endeavors that will allow the IC and DOD to not only respond to threats, but to preempt them.

The Russian active measures campaign that targeted our election must not be allowed to happen again, and the bill includes a minority-authored provision requiring a briefing to congressional leaders, including members of this committee, if the United States faces a significant foreign cyber intrusion or active measures campaign directed at a Federal election.

Ensuring that we maintain America's traditional advantage in technology must remain a priority for our intelligence services. As such, the bill resources and directs efforts that will promote our advantages across a range of cutting-edge domains from space to artificial intelligence.

Ensuring that Congress provides necessary guidance and oversight to the IC, the bill includes several minority-authored provisions related to covert action. Ensuring transparency and allowing the work of the IC is essential in a democracy, and the bill reauthorizes for 10 years the Public Interest Declassification Review Board to maximize the openness of the IC.

In the end, the men and women who serve in the Intelligence Community and DOD are the most important factor in the success of our national security, and the bill includes provisions related to parental leave, student loan repayment, and diversity inclusiveness that are intended to make an exceptional workforce even better.

There are many other things in the bill that will build on the work of past years and move us further along technical and other pathways to meet new challenges and those still on the horizon.

The bill, like any bill, is not perfect, but it is a very good bill, and I urge that we vote to send it to the full House for consideration.

I thank you, Mr. Chairman, and I yield back.

THE CHAIRMAN: Thank you, Mr. Schiff.

Pursuant to notice, I call up H.R. 6237, the Matthew Young Pollard Intelligence Authorization Act for Fiscal Years 2018 and 2019. The clerk will designate the bill.

16 SEC. 1504. INTELLIGENCE COMMUNITY REPORTS ON SECUR-
17 RITY CLEARANCES.

18 (a) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Con-
19 gress that—

20 (1) despite sustained efforts by Congress and 21 the executive branch, an unacceptable backlog in 22 processing and adjudicating security clearances per-
23 sists, both within elements of the intelligence com-
24 munity and in other departments of the Federal

1 Government, with some processing times exceeding a
2 year or even more;

3 (2) the protracted clearance timetable threatens
4 the ability of elements of the intelligence community
5 to hire and retain highly qualified individuals, and 6 thus to fulfill the missions of such elements;

7 (3) the prospect of a lengthy clearance process
8 deters some such individuals from seeking employ-
9 ment with the intelligence community in the first 10 place, and, when faced with a long wait time, those 11 with conditional offers of employment may opt to 12 discontinue the security clearance process and pur-
13 sue different opportunities;

14 (4) now more than ever, therefore, the broken
15 security clearance process badly needs fundamental 16 reform; and

17 (5) in the meantime, to ensure the ability of 18 elements of the intelligence community to hire and 19 retain highly qualified personnel, elements should 20 consider, to the extent possible and consistent with 21 national security, permitting new employees to enter
22 on duty immediately or nearly so, and to perform,
23 on a temporary basis pending final adjudication of 24 their security clearances, work that either does not

1 require a security clearance or requires only a low-
2 level interim clearance.

3 (b) IN GENERAL.—Section 506H of the National Se-
4 curity Act of 1947 (50 U.S.C. 3104) is amended—

5 (1) in subsection (a)(1)—

6 (A) in subparagraph (A)(ii), by inserting
7 “and” after the semicolon;

8 (B) in subparagraph (B)(ii), by striking “;
9 and” and inserting a period; and

10 (C) by striking subparagraph (C);

11 (2) by redesignating subsection (b) as sub-
12 section (c);

19 dicated unfavorably and resulted in a denial or
20 revocation of a security clearance.

21 “(D) The total number of security clearance
22 periodic background investigations that were adju-
23 dicated with notice of a determination provided to 24 the existing employee, including—

2 dicated favorably; and

3 “(ii) the total number that were adju-
4 dicated unfavorably and resulted in a denial or
5 revocation of a security clearance.

6 “(E) The total number of pending security
7 clearance background investigations, including initial
8 applicant investigations and periodic reinvestiga-
9 tions, that were not adjudicated as of the last day
10 of such year and that remained pending as follows:

11 “(i) For 180 days or less.

12 “(ii) For 180 days or longer, but less than 13 12 months.

14 “(iii) For 12 months or longer, but less
15 than 18 months.

16 “(iv) For 18 months or longer, but less
17 than 24 months.

19 “(F) In the case of security clearance deter-
20 minations completed or pending during the year pre-
21 ceding the year for which the report is submitted
22 that have taken longer than 12 months to com-
23 plete—

1 “(i) an explanation of the causes for the 2 delays incurred during the period covered by 3 the report; and

4 “(ii) the number of such delays involving a
5 polygraph requirement.

6 “(G) The percentage of security clearance in-
7 vestigations, including initial and periodic reinves-
8 tigations, that resulted in a denial or revocation of 9 a security clearance.

10 “(H) The percentage of security clearance in-
11 vestigations that resulted in incomplete information.

12 “(I) The percentage of security clearance inves-
13 tigations that did not result in enough information
14 to make a decision on potentially adverse informa-
15 tion.

16 “(3) The report required under this subsection shall 17 be submitted in unclassified form, but may include a clas-18 sified annex.”; and

19 (4) in subsection (c), as redesignated by para-
20 graph (2), by striking “subsection (a)(1)” and in-
21 serting “subsections (a)(1) and (b)”.

I ask unanimous consent for the committee's security director to review the transcript of today's meeting to ensure appropriate classification and make any necessary redaction of classified information from the open session. Without objection, it is so ordered.

One final note of business. Today is Angel Smith, who has been with us for a while now, a longtime marine and pilot and doctor -- where is she at? But she has decided that with all of her qualifications, she can make more money than we can pay her here. So, Angel, congratulations and thank you for your service to your country.

[Applause.]

THE CHAIRMAN: All right. With that, I think we set a record for our markup time. So, hopefully, we will have a good vote next week. So without any further business, the hearing is adjourned.

Mr. Hurd.

MR. HURD: Am I still allowed to vote?

THE CHAIRMAN: I don't think so. Mr. Hurd is recognized.

MR. HURD: Mr. Chairman, I was unavoidably detained, and had I been able to be here, I would have voted yes.

THE CHAIRMAN: Okay. Let the record show that Mr. Hurd will be recorded as yes on both votes.

MR. CONAWAY: I would like to invoke the same privilege.

THE CHAIRMAN: Mr. Conaway. Anybody else? All right.

With no further business, without objection, the meeting is adjourned.
