

Jonathan Wood

Professional Experience

Pacific Legal Foundation

Attorney

College of Public Interest Law Fellow

Arlington, VA; Sacramento, CA

Sept. 2014-present

Sept. 2012-Aug. 2014

Property and Environment Research Center

Research Fellow

Adjunct Fellow

Bozeman, MT

July 2018-present

July 2017-July 2018

Law school internships: Cato Institute Center for Constitutional Studies; Chambers of Hon. Eric N. Vitaliano, E.D.N.Y.; Pacific Legal Foundation

Education

NYU School of Law, JD 2012

London School of Economics, MPA 2009

University of Texas at Austin, BA Economics 2007

Publications

The Road to Recovery: How Restoring the Endangered Species Act's Two-Step Process Can Prevent Extinction and Promote Recovery, PERC Policy Report (2018).

Antiquities Act: Legal Implications for Executive and Congressional Action, 48 Environmental Law Reporter 10,187 (2018) (coauthored with McElfish, Mallory, and Squillace).

Christie v. NCAA: Anti-Commandeering or Bust, 18 Federalist Society Review 56 (2017).

Standing Up to the Regulatory State: Is Standing's Redressability Requirement an Obstacle to Challenging Regulations in an Over-Regulated World?, 86 UMKC Law Review 147 (2017).

Overcriminalization and the Endangered Species Act: Mens Rea and Criminal Convictions for Take, 46 Env'tl. L. Rep. 10,496 (2016).

Did Gonzalez v. Raich Eviscerate All Constitutional Limits on Federal Power?, 17:1 Engage 43 (2016).

Take it to the Limit: The Illegal Regulation Prohibiting the Take of any Threatened Species Under the Endangered Species Act, 33 Pace Env'tl. L. Rep. 23 (2015).

Underground Environmental Regulations: Regulations Imposed as Mitigation Measures Under CEQA Violate the California Administrative Procedure Act, 52 Cal. Western. L. Rev. 1 (2015).

A Federal Crime Against Nature? The Federal Government Cannot Prohibit Harm to All Endangered Species Under the Necessary and Proper Clause, 29 Tulane Env'tl. L.J. 65 (2015).

Misc.

Board Member, Federal Society Environmental and Property Rights Practice Group, Sept. 2017-present

Blogger, LibertarianEnvironmentalism.com, 2016-present

Notes Editor/ Staff Editor, NYU Journal of Legislation and Public Policy 2010-2012