

Please find a statement of support from Entergy Arkansas President and CEO Laura Landreaux:

“Entergy Arkansas appreciates Chairman Westerman’s and Representative Golden’s leadership to introduce commonsense, bipartisan legislation to help speed the development of energy and infrastructure projects vital to national security and economic growth.

“Earlier this year, Arkansas Governor Sarah Huckabee Sanders signed into law legislation developed by the Arkansas General Assembly to modernize energy regulation to make our state more attractive to industries seeking reliable power while maintaining critical consumer protections. Already, industries such as technology companies, lithium, steel, manufacturing, aerospace, defense, and forestry are seeking to come to Arkansas or expand existing facilities to provide jobs and economic benefits.

“The SPEED Act will provide an additional tool to help streamline the review of these projects requiring federal approval and limit judicial delays while also maintaining essential environmental protections.”
