

Will Glasco - Bio
February 2026

Born and raised in Richmond, Will Glasco became interested in Virginia history and culture at a young age after touring local historic sites and battlefields. He grew up working in his family's small business but was drawn to the historic port town of Wilmington, North Carolina, attending UNCW. After graduation in 2008 with a degree in Creative Writing, he worked for the American Civil War Museum in Richmond in both the Visitor Services and Development Departments. Beginning in 2014, he led the Development program at Preservation Virginia, and recently became Chief Executive Officer of the organization. He's working towards a graduate degree in American History at Gettysburg College, and serves on the board of the Rural Plains Foundation in Hanover County and Historic Turkey Run House in Chesterfield County. He's also past Chair of the Virginia Association of Fundraising Executives.
