

Biography

D. Andrew Austin is an Analyst in Economic Policy with the CRS Government and Finance Division. He analyzes budget issues, public debt, and other public finance issues. He has also been working on Puerto Rico's fiscal challenges since 2014. He has taught public economics, health economics and microeconomic theory at the University of Houston, Bowdoin College and at CERGE-EI, a doctoral program in economics of Charles University and the Czech Academy of Sciences in Prague. He has also served as coordinating editor for the World Bank newsletter, Beyond Transition. He graduated from Bennington College in Vermont, earned a Diploma in Economics from Cambridge University, and holds a PhD from the University of Pennsylvania. He has published journal articles in the Journal of Public Economics, the Journal of Urban Economics, Economic Inquiry, Public Choice, Journal of Macroeconomics, Regional Science and Urban Economics, and Education Finance and Policy.