

Fire Service Support for the Pro Codes Act

America's fire service organizations support the Pro Codes Act (S.835, H.R.1631), bipartisan legislation that will ensure the proven system of developing fire safety codes continues. For more than a century, voluntary consensus standards created by non-profit organizations like the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) and UL have protected all Americans, including firefighters. The existing system operates with openness, transparency and balance. Our homes, our workplaces, and even our fire stations are safer thanks to these standards developed using rigorous consensus procedures. Because these constantly improving codes save lives and property, we strongly endorse these legislative efforts to protect against attacks on a system that works so well.
