Matt Schruers (pronounced "shears")

Matt Schruers is President of the Computer & Communications Industry Association (CCIA), where he leads its advocacy on behalf of internet, communications, and technology companies. He is also the co-founder and Board Chair of the Digital Trust & Safety Partnership (DTSP), a first-of-its-kind partnership to assess and improve industry best practices to foster a safer and more trustworthy internet. Matt has also taught intellectual property and internet law as an adjunct professor at Georgetown and American University Washington College of Law for over 10 years. He is a graduate of Duke and the University of Virginia School of Law.