

Paul Taylor
(Biography)

Paul Taylor is currently a Visiting Fellow at the National Security Institute at George Mason University. Previously, he was counsel, and then chief counsel, to the House Judiciary Committee's Subcommittee on the Constitution and Civil Justice, for over twenty years, and a senior counsel at the House Oversight Committee. He is an elected member of the American Law Institute and the author of over a dozen law review articles on legal reform, most recently "Disclosing High Roller Bankrolling in the Patent Litigation Casino: The Need to Regulate Third Party Litigation Financing," 103 J. Pat. & Trademark Off. Soc'y 21 (2023) (winner of the 2024 Rossman Award, awarded annually by the Patent and Trademark Office Society to the author of the article in its law journal that, in the opinion of the judges, makes the greatest contribution to the field of patents, trademarks, or copyrights); and "Anti-Monopoly and Pro-Commerce: The Original Frontier Spirit of American Patent Law and Its Implications for Today," 74 Syracuse L. Rev. 59 (2024). He is a 1994 graduate of Harvard Law School, cum laude, and a 1991 graduate of Yale College, summa cum laude.
