I am a software engineer and small business owner from Broken Arrow, Oklahoma. When misused, software patents stifle innovation and restrict small businesses from truly innovating and growing the United States economy. We have seen far too many times where innovation is stomped out and ended before it could even begin due to patent trolls who contribute nothing back to the economy which they abuse for profit. The IPR empowers small businesses and individuals alike to fight back against patent trolls without having to have millions of dollars in the bank to fund legal fights in court. This proposal will reduce the power of the IPR, destroying the only avenue small businesses like mine have to fight back against patent trolling.
