

Jon Schleuss is president of the NewsGuild, which is a labor union representing more than 24,000 journalists and other communications professionals in the United States and Canada, including approximately 3,000 workers who have joined in the last two years. NewsGuild members work at hundreds of news outlets—including big publications like the New York Times, small papers like the Billings Gazette in Montana and digital-only outlets like BuzzFeed News. The NewsGuild is a sector of the Communications Workers of America. Jon has worked in radio and at newspapers including at the Los Angeles Times and Arkansas Democrat-Gazette.