

Jennifer L. Mascott
Brief Biography

House Judiciary Committee Hearing
December 1, 2021

Jennifer Mascott is an Assistant Professor of Law and Co-Executive Director of the C. Boyden Gray Center for the Study of the Administrative State at the Antonin Scalia Law School of George Mason University. Professor Mascott writes and teaches in the areas of administrative law, constitutional law, the separation of powers, and federal courts. Her scholarship has been cited by the Supreme Court and published in the Stanford Law Review among other publications. Professor Mascott previously served as Associate Deputy Attorney General in the U.S. Justice Department and as Deputy Assistant Attorney General within the department's Office of Legal Counsel. Currently she serves as a Vice Chair of the American Bar Association Administrative Law Section's Committee on Constitutional Law and Separation of Powers, and she was recently reappointed to serve as a Public Member of the Administrative Conference of the United States. She is a former law clerk to Justice Clarence Thomas and clerked for then-Judge Brett Kavanaugh during his first year of service on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit. Professor Mascott graduated summa cum laude from the George Washington University Law School where she earned the highest cumulative graduating grade point average on record at the law school.