

James Czerniawski (Chur-now-ski) is the Senior Policy Analyst at Americans for Prosperity focusing on issues surrounding Technology and Innovation. Prior to joining Americans for Prosperity, he was a Technology and Innovation Policy Analyst at the Libertas Institute. He received his master's degree in economics from George Mason University, where he was an MA Fellow with the Mercatus Center. His work has been featured in the New York Post, Newsmax, The Morning Consult, and more.