

Patrick Purtill is Executive Vice President & General Counsel of Unify.US and serves as the Charles Evans Hughes Lecturer in Politics and Co-Director of the Washington Study Group at Colgate University. Previously, he was Director of Legislative Affairs at Faith & Freedom Coalition and practiced law advising corporations on formation, transactions, corporate governance, and compliance issues. In the George W. Bush Administration, he spent three years as Special Assistant to the Deputy Attorney General where he managed drafting and implementation of regulatory reforms and served on the Attorney General's Prisoner Reentry Working Group, the President's Prisoner Reentry Initiative Group, and the Strategic Management Council's Subcommittee on Violent Crime and Gangs. He spent another two years in the Office of the U.S. Secretary of State as Director of New Partner Outreach for PEPFAR where he created and implemented the New Partners Initiative, a $200 million program to deliver HIV/AIDS programming in 15 countries. Additionally, Patrick served as CEO of two Washington-based NGOs: the National Council For Adoption and the Washington Scholarship Fund. Patrick holds a J.D. from the College of William and Mary Law School, and a master's and bachelor's degree in political philosophy from the University of Dallas.