

Federal Justice Statistics, 2023

Mark A. Motivans, PhD, BJS Statistician

Federal arrests decreased 3% from fiscal year (FY) 2022 to FY 2023 (figure 1).<sup>1</sup> After gradually increasing from 2000 to 2013, federal arrests decreased from 2014 to 2017 before increasing in 2018 and 2019. In FY 2021, arrests dropped to the lowest level in 20 years (78,068). Federal arrests rose to 96,857 in FY 2022 and dropped to 94,411 in FY 2023.

At fiscal yearend 2023, 342,556 persons were in federal confinement or under federal supervision in the community (table 1). This was a 17% decline from fiscal yearend 2013, when 410,659 persons were in federal confinement or under federal supervision in the community. This decline was driven by a drop in the number of persons in the Federal Bureau of Prisons (FBOP) (from 195,744 in 2013 to 137,477 in 2023). About 57% were in secure confinement and 43% were on community supervision.

<sup>1</sup>In this report, annual data are for the fiscal year, which is from October 1 to September 30.

HIGHLIGHTS

- During fiscal year (FY) 2023, 94,411 suspects were arrested by federal law enforcement and booked by the U.S. Marshals Service, a 3% decrease from 96,857 in FY 2022.
- Of the 25,110 Drug Enforcement Administration arrests in FY 2023, the most common type of drug involved was methamphetamine (7,381 arrests), followed by other opioids (6,688 arrests), which includes fentanyl.
- The median number of days from the receipt of an investigation to the decision by a U.S. attorney to prosecute or decline a matter was 61 days in FY 2023, similar to FY 2022.
- U.S. attorneys prosecuted 61% of suspects in matters concluded in FY 2023. The percentage of suspects prosecuted was highest in immigration (70%), drug offenses (70%), and weapons offenses (68%).
- The median number of days from case filing in U.S. district court to case disposition was 316 days in FY 2023, about the same as in FY 2022.

Note: Details may not sum to totals due to rounding. Persons in federal confinement or under federal supervision in the community are shown as of September 30, 2013, 2022, and 2023.

*Counts include federally sentenced persons in the custody of the Federal Bureau of Prisons (FBOP) and persons sentenced in U.S. district court. Counts exclude persons sentenced to the FBOP by the District of Columbia Superior Court, military prisoners transferred to FBOP facilities to serve their sentence, U.S. citizen prisoners transferred to the United States from another country to serve their sentence closer to home, and persons convicted of a state offense but serving time in a federal prison for their security needs. Unsensitized persons in FBOP custody are counted in pretrial detention counts.

Definitions of major offense categories

Violent—Includes murder, negligent or nonnegligent manslaughter, aggravated or simple assault, sexual abuse, robbery, kidnapping, and threats against the U.S. President.

Property—Includes fraudulent and other types of property offenses.

Fraudulent property—Includes embezzlement, fraud, forgery, and counterfeiting.

Other property—Includes burglary, larceny, motor vehicle theft, arson, transportation of stolen property, and other property offenses, such as destruction of property and trespassing.

Drug—Includes the manufacture, import, export, distribution, or dispensing of a controlled or counterfeit substance, or the possession of a controlled or counterfeit substance with intent to manufacture or distribute.

Public order—Includes regulatory and other types of public order offenses.

Regulatory public order—Includes violations of agriculture, antitrust, labor, food and drug, motor carrier, and other federal regulations.

Other public order—Includes nonregulatory violations concerning tax law (tax fraud), bribery, perjury, national defense, escape, racketeering and extortion, gambling, liquor, receipt and distribution of child sexual exploitation materials (child pornography), traffic, migratory birds, conspiracy, aiding and abetting, jurisdiction, and other offenses.

Weapons—Includes violations of any of the provisions of 18 U.S.C. §§ 922–923 concerning the manufacture, import, possession, receipt, and license of firearms and ammunition.

Immigration—Includes offenses involving illegal entrance into the United States, illegal reentry after being deported, the willful failure to leave when ordered, or the transportation or harbor of any non-U.S. citizens not admitted by an immigration officer.

Supervision violations—Includes violations of bail, violations of pretrial or post-sentencing supervision in the community (probation), and failures to appear.

This report describes cases processed by the federal criminal justice system. Data are from the Federal Justice Statistics Program, which collects, standardizes, and reports on administrative data received from six federal justice agencies: the U.S. Marshals Service, Drug Enforcement Administration, the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts (AOUSC), Executive Office for U.S. Attorneys, FBOP, and the U.S. Sentencing Commission.

Arrest and booking

Arrests in this section refer to the most serious offenses that suspects were booked for by deputy U.S. marshals. In each federal judicial district, deputy U.S. marshals are responsible for taking suspects charged with a federal crime into custody (which involves booking, processing, and detaining the suspects), overseeing court security, and coordinating prisoner transportation.

In FY 2023, federal law enforcement agencies made 94,411 arrests

The most common arrest offenses in FY 2023 were immigration offenses (26% of all arrests), supervision violations (22%), and drug offenses (19%) (table 2).<sup>2</sup>

These three violations comprised nearly two-thirds of all federal arrests in FY 2023 (59,909). The largest percentage increase in arrests from FY 2022 to FY 2023 was for immigration offenses (5%). Arrests for drug offenses decreased by 7% from FY 2022 to FY 2023. Arrests for weapons offenses decreased 6% from 8,068 arrests in FY 2022 to 7,560 arrests in FY 2023.

Note: Details may not sum to totals due to rounding. Each arrest is counted separately, so individuals with more than one arrest are counted more than once. The most serious offense at arrest is determined by the deputy U.S. marshal at booking. The federal district is the location of the federal court where booking takes place. The custody start date is used instead of the arrest date (as in years prior to FY 2020) because not all bookings had arrest dates, due to the U.S. Marshals Service's transition to a new data system. The custody date is used to ensure all bookings are enumerated, including records that are missing an arrest date. See Methodology.

Response to immigration violations by the federal criminal justice system

The number of persons processed for immigration offenses varied across the federal criminal justice system, with the greatest differences at the early stages of arrest and investigation.<sup>3</sup> In fiscal year (FY) 2013, immigration offenses made up more than half of total arrests and bookings by the U.S. Marshals Service (96,374), which is the entry point into the federal criminal case process (figure 2). By FY 2023, immigration comprised about a quarter (26%; 22,916) of total arrests and bookings.

Criminal immigration referrals to U.S. attorneys that were prosecuted in U.S. district court made up 29% of all referrals in 2013, 34% in 2018, and 31% in 2023 (figure 3). The relative drop between the percentage of immigration suspects arrested and the percentage of immigration suspects prosecuted generally occurred due to the exclusion of matters disposed by the U.S. magistrate from the prosecution count. Petty immigration matters

Note: Each arrest is counted separately, so individuals with more than one arrest are counted more than once. For 2020 to 2023 arrests, the custody start date is used instead of the arrest date (as in years prior to FY 2020) because not all bookings had arrest dates, due to the U.S. Marshals Service's transition to a new data system. The custody date is used to ensure all bookings are enumerated, including records that are missing an arrest date. See Methodology. See appendix table 2 for counts.

appeared in the arrest and investigation stages but were excluded from later stages of the judicial process because they were not prosecuted in U.S. district court.<sup>4</sup> In 2023, persons convicted for an immigration offense made up 29% of the federal court's case load, which was the same in 2013 (29%) but lower than 2018 (34%).

The percentage of persons admitted to the Federal Bureau of Prisons (FBOP) for immigration offenses decreased from 30% of all persons admitted in FY 2013, to 22% in FY 2018, and 17% in FY 2023. The proportion of persons admitted to federal supervision for an immigration offense was 9% in FY 2023, an increase from both FY 2013 (5%) and FY 2018 (6%).

<sup>4</sup>A petty offense is defined in 18 U.S.C. §19 as a Class B misdemeanor, a Class C misdemeanor, or an infraction, with limitations on fines of no more than $5,000 for an individual and $10,000 for an organization. Petty immigration matters include entry without inspection (8 U.S.C. §1825) and are misdemeanors with a maximum sentence of 6 months.

Immigration offenses as a percent of total federal criminal case load, by stage, FY 2013, FY 2018, and FY 2023

Note: Stages represent the percent of total persons at each stage in the federal criminal case load with immigration as the most serious offense. Percentages computed based on cases not missing offense type. See appendix table 3 for counts.

Arrests by the Drug Enforcement Administration

The Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) enforces the controlled substances laws and regulations of the United States, including investigating major drug offenses at the national and international levels. The DEA coordinates with foreign governments and federal, state, tribal, and local agencies. It has 239 offices in the United States and 92 offices in 69 countries.<sup>5</sup>

<sup>5</sup>See <https://www.dea.gov/domestic-divisions>. Arrest counts reported by the DEA overlap with bookings data collected by the U.S. Marshals Service and are reported in table 2. DEA data include all arrests made by DEA agents and do not describe whether a DEA arrest is a state or federal case. Therefore, comparisons should not be made between DEA and U.S. Marshals Service booking data, which include bookings for federal cases only.

Source: Bureau of Justice Statistics, based on data from the Drug Enforcement Administration, Defendant Statistical System, fiscal years 2013–2023.

The DEA reported 25,110 drug arrests in fiscal year (FY) 2023, 4% fewer than in FY 2022. (See appendix table 4.) In 2023, methamphetamine accounted for 29% of drug arrests, while 27% were for other opioids, including fentanyl (figures 4 and 5). From FY 2013 to FY 2023, DEA arrests for other opioids, including fentanyl, increased the most (12% per year on average). During that period, arrests declined an average of 14% for heroin, 11% for marijuana, 7% for crack cocaine, and 3% for powder cocaine each year. Methamphetamine arrests made up 22% of DEA arrests in FY 2013 and 29% in FY 2023, increasing an average of 1% per year during this period.

About 41% of arrests in FY 2023 were in the five federal judicial districts along the U.S.-Mexico border

The five federal judicial districts along the U.S.-Mexico border (California Southern, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas Western, and Texas Southern) accounted for 41% of all federal arrests in FY 2023, similar to 2022 (40%) (map 1). (See Federal Justice Statistics, 2022 (NCJ 307553, BJS, January 2024).) Arizona (11,639) had the most arrests, followed by Texas Southern (9,520), Texas Western (9,291), California Southern (5,143), and New Mexico (2,856).

Federal arrests, by judicial district, FY 2023

Note: A total of 94,411 suspects were arrested for a federal offense from October 1, 2022 to September 30, 2023. Each arrest is counted separately, so persons with more than one arrest are counted more than once. The map shows the number of arrests by the federal judicial district, which is the location of the federal court where booking took place. Not shown: District of Columbia (378), Guam (72), Northern Mariana Islands (32), Puerto Rico (1,151), and U.S. Virgin Islands (110). See appendix table 5 for counts.

Investigation and prosecution

Ninety-three U.S. attorneys served as the chief federal prosecutor within their judicial district in FY 2023.<sup>6</sup> Federal law enforcement agencies referred the most matters to U.S. attorneys in FY 2023, but referrals also came from state and local law enforcement.

In FY 2023, the Department of Justice referred the most suspects of any referring authority

In FY 2023, there were 100,445 suspects in matters referred to U.S. attorneys, down from 102,329 in FY 2022. Law enforcement agencies within the U.S. Department of Justice referred 45% of those suspects in both FY 2022 and FY2023, compared to 26% in FY 2013 (table 3). Agencies within the Department of Homeland Security referred 33% in matters sent to U.S. attorneys in FY 2023, down from 57% in FY 2013. This decline coincided with a drop in immigration matters referred (92,189 matters in FY 2013, 24,909 in FY 2022, and 25,506 in FY 2023; not shown in table). In FY 2023, 4% of suspects in matters opened by U.S. attorneys were referred by federal or state task forces.

<sup>6</sup>One U.S. attorney serves two districts: Guam and the Northern Mariana Islands. This section combines Guam with the Northern Mariana Islands for statistical reporting.

Percentages are based on records with nonmissing referring authority data. The unit of count is a suspect in a matter referred to U.S. attorneys. Suspects in more than one matter are counted separately. A matter is opened when a federal prosecutor spends 1 hour or more investigating. There were 15 records missing referring authority in 2023, 15 missing referring authority in 2022, and 298 missing referring authority in 2013.

U.S. attorneys prosecuted 61% of suspects in matters concluded in FY 2023

U.S. attorneys establish policies and priorities within their federal judicial districts and determine which cases they prosecute. In choosing to prosecute, U.S. attorneys account for factors such as available resources and the priorities of the DOJ and state and local law enforcement. To conclude a matter, U.S. attorneys may file charges and prosecute defendants in U.S. district court, file charges and dispose of matters before U.S. magistrate judges, or decline matters, resulting in no further action in U.S. district court. In FY 2023, the offenses that U.S. attorneys most commonly chose to prosecute included immigration and drug offenses (both 70%), weapons offenses (68%), property offenses other than fraud (54%), and violent offenses (53%) (table 4).

U.S. magistrate judges have the authority to adjudicate or dispose of misdemeanor offenses under 18 U.S.C. § 3401. Magistrate judges' matters differ from prosecutions in that they typically require less than 1 hour of an assistant U.S. attorney's time and are processed quickly in court. Thirteen percent of matters concluded by U.S. attorneys in FY 2023 were disposed of by U.S. magistrate judges. Matters that were most likely to be disposed of by U.S. magistrate judges included immigration offenses (29%) and public order offenses other than regulatory offenses (16%).

U.S. attorneys declined to prosecute 26% of matters concluded in FY 2023. The cases most likely to be declined were property fraud (54%) and regulatory public order (47%) offenses. The median time from receipt of an investigation to the decision by a U.S. attorney to prosecute or decline a matter was 61 days in FY 2023, similar to FY 2022 (60 days). (See Federal Justice Statistics, 2022 (NCJ 307553, BJS, January 2024).)

<sup>a</sup>Details may not sum to totals due to rounding. The unit of count is a suspect in a matter referred to U.S. attorneys. Suspects investigated in more than one matter are counted separately. There were 30 records missing the suspect's lead charge.

<sup>b</sup>Case-processing time reflects the time from receipt of a matter to the U.S. attorney's decision to prosecute the matter as a case in U.S. district court, refer the matter for disposal by a U.S. magistrate judge, or decline the matter, resulting in no further action in U.S. district court. The median is the midpoint of processing time. A median of 60 days means that half of the suspects received a disposition in less than 60 days of the matter's referral and half received a disposition in more than 60 days.

<sup>c</sup>The lead charge is the substantive statute that is the primary basis for referral. It is most often, but not always, the charge with the greatest potential sentence.

Case filing, adjudication, and sentencing

This section describes the workload of U.S. district courts, including the disposition of criminal proceedings and the sentencing of convicted defendants. The district courts serve as the general trial courts of the federal judicial system and have original jurisdiction over any case arising under federal statutes, the U.S. Constitution, or treaties. Each U.S. district court has at least one U.S. district judge who is appointed by the U.S. President and confirmed by the U.S. Senate.

11% fewer defendants were charged with property offenses in FY 2023 than in FY 2022

From FY 2022 to FY 2023, the number of defendants charged with a federal offense decreased by 5%, from 60,490 to 57,697 (figure 6). During that period, the number of persons charged with property offenses decreased 11% and the number of persons charged with drug and weapons offenses decreased 10%.

Note: The unit of count is a defendant in a case filed in U.S. district court. Defendants charged in more than one case are counted separately. Includes defendants charged in U.S. district court with a felony or a misdemeanor offense as the most serious charge. See appendix table 6 for counts.

Most defendants charged in U.S. district court in FY 2023 were male

A total of 48,177 males and 6,942 females were charged in U.S. district court in FY 2023, with males accounting for 87% of all defendants and females accounting for 13% (table 5). Females made up 30% of defendants charged with a property offense and 18% of defendants charged with a drug offense (figure 7).

Fifty-two percent of defendants charged in U.S. district court in FY 2023 were Hispanic. Forty-one percent of females charged in U.S. district court in 2023 were Hispanic, 32% were white, and 21% were black. Of the males charged, 54% were Hispanic, 25% were black, and 18% were white. Eighty-five percent of females charged were U.S. citizens. Thirty-six percent of all defendants charged in U.S. district court in FY 2023 were non-U.S. citizens. Other than the United States (61%), the most common countries or regions of citizenship among male defendants charged were Mexico (27%), Central America (7%), and the Caribbean Islands (2%).

Sixty-three percent of defendants were ages 25 to 44. The youngest defendants (age 19 or younger) and oldest defendants (age 65 or older) together made up 3% of persons charged in FY 2023.

Type of counsel in the federal criminal justice system

The Criminal Justice Act was enacted in 1964 and requires that attorneys be appointed to represent defendants unable to pay for their own counsel. The Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts provides for two types of counsel for federal indigent defendants: public defenders and panel-appointed attorneys consisting of private attorneys. These panel-appointed attorneys accept appointments to represent eligible defendants for reimbursement from the government.

Almost all (98%) of the nearly 70,000 defendants in cases concluded with a known counsel type in FY 2023 had some type of counsel (figure 8). Eight in 10 defendants were indigent defendants represented by either panel-appointed attorneys (28,425) or public defenders (27,133). Private counsel represented 13,004 of defendants in FY 2023. The remaining defendants (1,373) waived representation or were self-represented in cases that were mostly charged with misdemeanors. From FY 2000 to FY 2023, the use of private counsel decreased by an annual average rate of 2%, the use of public defenders increased at an annual average rate of less than 1%, and the use of panel-appointed attorneys increased at an annual average rate of less than 1%. Defendants waiving counsel or representing themselves decreased by 5%.

9 in 10 defendants adjudicated in U.S. district court in FY 2023 were convicted

About 91% of the 71,866 defendants adjudicated in FY 2023 were convicted (table 6). Nearly all defendants charged with immigration (98%), weapons (94%), drug or other regulatory offenses (both 92%) offenses were convicted. About 89% of defendants adjudicated pled guilty. Two percent of defendants were convicted through a bench or jury trial. Defendants adjudicated in U.S.-Mexico border districts had a higher conviction rate (96%) than defendants in non-border districts (88%). Among felony offenses, rates of nonconviction ranged from 2% for immigration offenses to 12% for public order regulatory offenses. The largest percentage of adjudicated cases that were not convicted were dismissed or otherwise concluded by the judge or prosecutor (9%). Acquittals (median 475 days), dismissals (median 469 days), and guilty pleas (median 302 days) took less time to process from case filing to disposition than trials that ended in convictions (median 797 days). The median days from case filing in U.S. district court to case disposition (316 days) was similar to FY 2022 (314 days). (See Federal Justice Statistics, 2022 (NCJ 307553, BJS, January 2024).) From FY 2022 to FY 2023, the median case processing time increased the most for cases disposed by a dismissal (up 49%).

3 in 4 defendants convicted were sentenced to prison in FY 2023

Of the 65,482 defendants convicted in U.S. district court in FY 2023, more than three-quarters (76%) were sentenced to prison (table 7). The remainder received probation only (8%), a fine only (2%), or other sentence (15%), which includes case dismissals, sealed cases, or sentences to time served.

In 2023, about 79% of persons convicted of a felony received a prison sentence. Persons convicted of violent (93%), drug (90%), or weapons (89%) felonies were most likely to receive prison terms. Twenty-one percent of persons convicted of a misdemeanor received a prison sentence in FY 2023.

Defendants sentenced to prison in FY 2023 received a median term of 40 months

Convicted defendants received a median sentence of 108 months in prison for a violent offense, 72 months for a drug offense, and 60 months for a nonregulatory public order offense (table 7). Nonregulatory public order offenses include receipt and distribution of child sexual exploitation materials, or child pornography. These offenses carry lengthy mandatory minimum penalties, which will increase the overall sentence length of this group of offenses. The median prison term for immigration defendants convicted of a felony was 14 months. Defendants convicted and sentenced to prison in the five U.S.-Mexico border districts received a median sentence of 18 months, compared to a median of 60 months in other districts. This was due to the higher proportion of immigration cases in the border districts which receive relatively shorter sentences than other offenses.

The type of sentence imposed in FY 2023 varied by sex, race or ethnicity, and age

In FY 2023, the median prison sentence for a felony was 40 months, about the same as the median of 41 months in FY 2022 (See table 8 in this report and Federal Justice Statistics, 2022 (NCJ 307553, BJS, January 2024).) Convicted males (79%) were sentenced to prison more often than convicted females (64%). Nineteen percent of convicted females received a probation-only sentence, compared to 6% of convicted males. Convicted defendants who were black (85%) were the most likely to receive a prison sentence, followed by those who were American Indian or Alaska Native (84%); white (78%); Hispanic (72%); and Asian, Native Hawaiian, or Other Pacific Islander (70%). Among those sentenced to prison, white and black defendants were both sentenced to a median of 60 months. The median age of defendants sentenced in FY 2023 was 36 years. Eighty-two percent of convicted U.S. citizens received a prison sentence, compared to 68% of convicted non-U.S. citizens. Twenty percent of convicted non-U.S. citizens received other outcomes (including suspension, time served, and sealed cases) compared to 7% of convicted U.S. citizens.

Federal prison

In FY 2023, a total of 51,117 federally sentenced persons were admitted to federal prison (table 9). Of these, 36,906 persons entered federal prison on U.S. district court commitments with a sentence of 1 year or more, and 3,140 entered with a sentence of less than 1 year. Another 11,071 persons were returned to federal prison for violating conditions of probation, parole, or supervised release or were admitted to federal prison for any reason other than a U.S. district court commitment. In FY 2023, a total of 18,635 persons entered federal prison for a drug offense, most of whom (14,850 or 80%) had been sentenced to more than 1 year.

A total of 54,708 persons were released from federal prison in FY 2023. More than two-thirds (37,610) were released for the first time since their U.S. district court commitment after serving more than 1 year. Eleven percent (5,239) more releases occurred in FY 2023 than in FY 2022. (See Federal Justice Statistics, 2022 (NCJ 307553, BJS, January 2024).) There were 3,591 fewer persons in federal prison at the end of FY 2023 (September 30, 2023) than at the start of FY 2023 (October 1, 2022). From the start to the end of FY 2023, 1,663 fewer persons were in prison for a drug offense and 584 more persons were in prison for a public order offense. Most (80%) of the increase in other public order offenses was due to receipt and distribution of child sexual exploitation materials, or child pornography offenses (not shown in table).

Note: The unit of count is the individual, federally sentenced person admitted to or released from the Federal Bureau of Prisons (FBOP). Persons who were admitted and released in the same year are counted separately. Includes persons sentenced in U.S. district court. Excludes persons sentenced to the FBOP by the District of Columbia Superior Court, military prisoners transferred to FBOP facilities to serve their sentence, U.S. citizen prisoners transferred to the United States from another country to serve their sentence closer to home, and persons convicted of a state offense but serving time in a federal prison for their security needs. Offense information was missing at the start of the year for 354 persons and at the end of the year for 289. Persons who entered or left a prison temporarily (such as for transit to another location, for health care, or to serve a weekend sentence) were not counted as admitted or released.

Persons committed for a drug offense made up less than half of federal prisoners at fiscal yearend 2023

At fiscal yearend 2023, a drug offense was the most serious commitment offense for 45% of federal prisoners, down from 51% at fiscal yearend 2013 (figure 9). During this 10-year period, persons serving time for a weapons offense increased from 16% to 22% of federal prisoners. Persons committed for a nonregulatory public order offense increased from 9% to 17%, mostly due to an increase in receipt and distribution of child sexual exploitation materials, or child pornography offenses. Persons committed for a violent offense remained at 6%, and persons committed for an immigration offense decreased from 12% at fiscal yearend 2013 to 5% at fiscal yearend 2023.

Five judicial districts committed 21% of all persons in federal prison at fiscal yearend 2023

At fiscal yearend 2023, more than one-fifth (21%) of persons in federal prison were committed from five districts: Texas Western (7,314), Texas Southern (6,982), Texas Northern (5,735), Florida Middle (4,562), and Florida Southern (4,176) (map 2). Courts in three states (Texas, California, and Florida) committed 29% of all the persons in federal prison at fiscal yearend 2023.

Nearly 1 in 6 federally sentenced persons in the FBOP were non-U.S. citizens at fiscal yearend 2023

Of the 137,477 federally sentenced persons in FBOP custody at fiscal yearend 2023, 9% were citizens of Mexico, 2% were citizens of South American countries, 2% were citizens of Caribbean Islands, and 2% were citizens of Central American countries (table 10).

From fiscal yearend 2013 to 2023, the portion of federal prisoners who were non-U.S. citizens decreased from 26% to 15%. During that period, the number of Mexican citizens in prison decreased by an average of 11% annually. The number of Canadian citizens in prison decreased by an average of 8% annually.

The number of prisoners in prison age 65 or older decreased less than 1% from fiscal yearend 2013 to 2023

The median age of prisoners was 41 years at fiscal yearend 2023, compared to 39 years at fiscal yearend 2013. The number of prisoners age 65 or older decreased by less than 1%, from 4,735 prisoners in FY 2013 to 4,370 prisoners in FY 2023. Persons age 65 or older made up about 3% of all federal prisoners in FY 2023, compared to 2% in FY 2013.

The type of commitment offense varied by race or ethnicity at fiscal yearend 2023

Hispanic, black, and white persons in federal prison at fiscal yearend 2023 were most commonly committed for drug offenses (table 11). More Hispanics were serving time for a drug (23,670) or immigration (6,581) offense than members of any other racial or ethnic group. More black persons were serving time for a weapons (18,525) or violent (2,722) offense than persons of any other race or ethnicity. The largest number of persons serving time for a public order offense (14,263) were white. Among persons who were American Indian or Alaska Native, the most common commitment offenses were violent (2,016), drug (570), and weapons (518) offenses.

Time served in federal prison

During FY 2023, a total of 42,859 persons were released from federal prison for the first time after serving a sentence imposed in U.S. district court (not shown in table). Of these, 25,437 persons were released by standard means (table 12). Standard means of release include the most common methods of exiting prison, such as upon serving an entire sentence, serving an entire sentence with good time, and release to parole. Persons released in FY 2023 served a median of 32 months. Persons released after serving sentences for nonregulatory public order offenses (median time served 67 months) served the most time, more than those released after serving sentences for violent offenses (64 months) or drug offenses (55 months). The higher levels of time served for nonregulatory public order releases result from that offense category including persons who were serving sentences for receipt and distribution of child sexual exploitation materials, or child pornography offenses.

Among persons released from federal prison, males (median 32 months) served more time than females (median 20 months). Time served ranged from 10 months for persons age 19 or younger to 66 months for persons age 65 years or older. U.S. citizens (median 50 months) served more time than non-U.S. citizens (15 months). Both black and white persons exiting federal prison in FY 2023 had served more time (a median of 51 months) for their commitment offense than persons of any other racial or ethnic group (a median of 18 to 38 months). This was true in general and for most offense types. Black persons served the most time for violent (median 88 months), nonregulatory public order (median 76 months), and drug (median 62 months) offenses. American Indian or Alaska Native persons served the most time for drug (median 41 months) and violent offenses (39 months) than for any other type of offense. The greatest difference in time served between white and black persons was for violent offenses (white persons served a median of 21 fewer months).

About 56% of prisoners first released in FY 2023 who had been committed for an immigration offense were first released after serving up to 1 year in prison (figure 10). Similarly, 25% of those who had been committed for a property offense were first released after serving up to 1 year in prison. Comparatively, a smaller percentage of persons who were released after serving up to 1 year had been committed for violent offenses (6%) and drug offenses (5%). Seventy-six percent of persons serving time for a violent offense and first released in FY 2023 had served up to 10 years in prison.

Federal supervision in the community

The Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts' Probation and Pretrial Services system oversees the supervision of persons released before trial and persons supervised in the community after being convicted. Federal probation officers monitor compliance with the court-ordered conditions of supervision.

90% of persons under federal supervision in the community at fiscal yearend 2023 were on supervised release

At fiscal yearend 2023, a total of 120,904 persons were under post-conviction federal supervision in the community (table 13). Ninety percent (109,021) of persons under federal community supervision were on supervised release. The remaining 10% (11,883) were on probation. Eighty-four percent (101,571) of all persons under community supervision in 2023 were male, and 16% (19,107) were female. Black (40,006) and white (39,362) persons together made up 67% of persons under federal supervision in the community. The median age of released persons on probation was 41 years. The median age of released persons under supervised release was 43 years. Four percent of persons under post-conviction federal supervision were non-U.S. citizens.

The number of persons on post-conviction supervision in the community decreased from 129,947 in FY 2013 to 120,904 in FY 2023 (not shown in tables). Persons admitted to supervision for drug offenses made up a slightly smaller proportion of persons under federal supervision, decreasing from 47% at fiscal yearend 2013 to 42% at fiscal yearend 2023 (figure 11). During that period, persons under supervision for fraudulent property offenses decreased from 18% to 12% of persons under supervision, while persons committed for other public order offenses increased from 9% to 14%, mostly due to an increase in sex offenses including receipt and distribution of child sexual exploitation materials, or child pornography. Persons committed for weapons offenses increased from 12% to 17% of persons under supervision.

Note: Data are based on the offense with the longest sentence. The unit of count is a person serving a term under federal supervision in the community. Percentages are based on nonmissing data. There were 209 records missing commitment offense in 2013 and 224 missing commitment offense in 2023. See appendix table 12 for percentages.

Methodology

This report uses data from the Federal Justice Statistics Program (FJSP), a collection from the Bureau of Justice Statistics (BJS). The FJSP receives administrative data files from six federal criminal justice agencies. Data represent the federal criminal case-processing stages from arrest to imprisonment and release. BJS standardizes this information to maximize comparability across and within agencies over time. This includes:

- Applying, where possible, the person-case as the primary unit of count. Exceptions include at arrest, where the unit of count is the individual suspect; at sentencing under federal sentencing guidelines, where the unit of count is the sentencing event; and at imprisonment, where the unit of count is the prisoner. The unit of analysis in this report is a combination of a person and arrest, matter, or case. For example, if a person is arrested and booked twice during the indicated period, such as with a supervision violation and again with a new offense, this is counted as two arrests or bookings. The unit of analysis for incarceration, probation, parole, or other supervised release is a person entering custody or supervision, a person leaving custody or supervision, or a person in custody or supervision at yearend. For example, if a person is convicted in two concurrent cases and committed once to the custody of the Federal Bureau of Prisons (FBOP) during the indicated period, they are counted as one admission to a term of incarceration.
- Delineating the fiscal year (October 1 through September 30) as the period for reported events.
- Applying a uniform offense classification across agencies. Offense categories for federal arrestees are based on the FBI's National Crime Information Center offense classifications, which are aggregated into the offense categories shown in the report. Offense categories for persons in prison are based on offense classifications used by the FBOP, while offense categories for those on federal supervision are based on offense classifications used by Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts (AOUSC). Data from the Executive Office for U.S. Attorneys is classified using U.S. Code titles and sections and then aggregated into the offense categories used in the tables.
- Classifying dispositions and sentences imposed.

FJSP data sources

U.S. Marshals Service: CAPTURE Information System provides information on suspects arrested for federal offenses. Suspects are counted more than once in a fiscal year if they are arrested multiple times during the period. This report uses the most serious arrest offense that suspects were booked for by the deputy U.S. marshal. Deputy U.S. marshals take federal suspects who have been charged with a crime into custody (which includes booking, processing, and detaining the suspects), oversee court security, and coordinate prisoner transportation, among other duties.

The 2020–2023 file is based on the custody start date being between October 1, 2019 and September 30, 2023 (fiscal year). The fiscal year files prior to 2020 were created using the arrest date. There are slightly more records with a nonmissing custody date than with a nonmissing arrest date. This is because not all bookings have the arrest date recorded. To ensure all bookings are captured, the custody date is used. Some arrests that would have been incorporated in previous years are excluded from the 2020–2023 file because the associated custody start date is outside of the fiscal year. Similarly, some arrests occurring outside of the fiscal year are retained because they are associated with a custody start date during the fiscal year. Not all bookings had an offense type associated with them, resulting in offense types missing at higher rates for 2020 to 2023 than in the prior years.

Drug Enforcement Administration: The Defendant Statistical System contains data on suspects arrested within the United States by Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) agents. The data include information on the characteristics of persons arrested and the type of drug for which they were arrested. Suspects are counted more than once in a fiscal year if they are arrested multiple times by the DEA during the period.

Executive Office for U.S. Attorneys: The Legal Information Office Network System database contains information on the investigation and prosecution of suspects in criminal matters received and concluded and criminal cases filed and adjudicated by U.S. attorneys. Suspects are counted more than once in a fiscal year if they are involved in multiple matters received and concluded during the period. A matter is defined as a referral in which an attorney spends 1 hour or more investigating. The lead charge is used to classify the most serious offense at referral and is defined as the substantive statute that is the primary basis of referral.

Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts: The Criminal Master File contains information about the criminal proceedings against defendants whose cases were filed and adjudicated in U.S. district courts. A criminal case is initiated by the government, usually through the U.S. attorney's office in coordination with a law enforcement agency. A criminal case is adjudicated when a defendant is convicted following plea or trial, the defendant is acquitted after trial, or dismissal of the case. The Criminal Master File includes information on cases involving felonies and Class A and B misdemeanors handled by U.S. district judges.<sup>7</sup>

Offenses are based on the most serious charged offense, as determined by the probation officer responsible for interviewing the defendant. The probation officer classifies the major offense charged into AOUSC four-digit offense codes, which are maintained and updated by the AOUSC. For defendants charged with more than one offense on an indictment, the probation officer chooses the offense carrying the most severe penalty or, in the case of two or more charges carrying the same penalty, the one with the highest offense severity. The offense severity level is determined by the AOUSC, which ranks offenses according to the maximum sentence, type of crime, and maximum fine amount.

This report also uses AOUSC data from the Pretrial Services Automated Case Tracking System (PACTS), which contains information on defendants interviewed and supervised by pretrial services. These data are used to describe background characteristics of persons who are arraigned. PACTS data are also used to describe persons under post-sentencing supervision in the community.

<sup>7</sup>A felony is classified as an offense for which the maximum term of imprisonment is more than 1 year in prison. Offenses classified as misdemeanors include those for which the maximum term of imprisonment is less than 1 year in prison. Class A misdemeanors include offenses for which the maximum term of imprisonment is 1 year or less but more than 6 months in prison. Class B misdemeanors include offenses for which the maximum term of imprisonment is 6 months or less but more than 30 days in prison.

U.S. Sentencing Commission: The Monitoring Database contains information on criminal defendants sentenced pursuant to the provisions of the Sentencing Reform Act of 1984. Data files are limited to defendants whose court records have been obtained by the U.S. Sentencing Commission.

Federal Bureau of Prisons: The SENTRY database contains information on all federally sentenced persons admitted to or released from federal prison during a fiscal year and persons in federal prison at fiscal yearend (September 30). The prisoner count reported by the FJSP differs from what is reported by the FBOP, although data are from the same source (SENTRY). For example, the FBOP reported 158,424 prisoners as of September 30, 2023. (See https://www.bop.gov/about/statistics/population\_statistics.jsp.) The FJSP starts with data extracted from SENTRY that differs slightly from this total (158,050). The difference (374 records) may be due to the timing of when the data request was made.

The data reported by the FBOP draws on a more current extract of the database that includes updated records. Of the 158,050 records, 16,531 records were removed from analysis because the prisoner was not listed at an FBOP custodial facility. The excluded records included designations to community confinement, home confinement, a hospital, Immigration and Customs Enforcement detention, material witness, and presentence admission. Next, 1,153 records were excluded due to missing commitment offense, and 2,497 were excluded because the prisoner was sentenced by the District of Columbia Superior Court. Finally, 392 records were removed because the prisoner was held as a state boarder, a foreign treaty transfer, or serving a sentence from a military court commitment.

Of the 158,050 prisoners reported by the FBOP in custody on September 30, 2023, a total of 137,477 (87% of the FBOP population) met the criteria as federally sentenced prisoners (figure 12). The average annual percent change detailed in table 10 and appendix tables 1 and 3 measures the average rate of growth (or decline) in the number of persons in FBOP custody per year between 2013 and 2023. The following formula is used:

FJSP data are available in the Federal Criminal Case Processing Statistics Tool, an interactive BJS web tool that permits users to query the federal data and download the results as a spreadsheet.<sup>8</sup> It provides statistics by the stage of the federal criminal case process, including law enforcement, prosecution and courts, and incarceration. Users can also generate queries by the title and section of the U.S. criminal code.

Excludes District of Columbia Superior Court arrests. For 2020 to 2023 arrests, the custody start date is used instead of the arrest date (as in prior years) because not all bookings in 2020 to 2023 had arrest dates, due to the U.S. Marshals Service's transition to a new data system. The custody date is used to ensure all bookings are enumerated, including records that are missing an arrest date. See Methodology.

<sup>e</sup>Average annual percent change measures the change over a period of 2 years or more. It shows the average rate of increase (or decrease) per year from 2013 to 2023. See Methodology.
