

Dylan Hedtler-Gaudette is the Acting Vice-President of Policy and Government Affairs at the Project On Government Oversight (POGO). In this role he fights for a more accountable and transparent federal government by advocating for commonsense policy reforms. Dylan has worked on a wide range of issues, including government ethics and corruption, accountability at the Pentagon, federal spending transparency, countering foreign influence, congressional authorities and separation of powers, and Supreme Court reform.

Dylan has testified before Congress numerous times and is routinely cited in major media outlets, including the Washington Post, Wall Street Journal, Roll Call, Politico, The Free Press, the Washington Free Beacon, the Washington Examiner, and others. In recognition of his effectiveness in advocating for good government reforms, Dylan has been named by The Hill as one of the top lobbyists in Washington every year since 2022.

Dylan is a native of the great state of Maine and obtained degrees in political science and economics from the University of Southern Maine as well as a master's degree in international relations from Northeastern University. He lives in Baltimore with his wife, son, and two cats.