

Kenneth L. Marcus is the founder, chairman, and CEO of the Louis D. Brandeis Center for Human Rights Under Law. He serves as a Professional Lecturer in Law at The George Washington University Law School. He is the author of The Definition of Anti-Semitism (Oxford University Press) and Jewish Identity and Civil Rights in America (Cambridge University Press).

Marcus previously served as Assistant U.S. Secretary of Education for Civil Rights, Staff Director at the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, and General Deputy Assistant Secretary for Fair Housing and Equal Opportunity at the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. In academia, he held the Lillie and Nathan Ackerman Chair in Equality and Justice at Baruch College (CUNY) and was Visiting Research Professor of Political Science at Yeshiva University.

A former litigation partner at two major law firms, Marcus has written extensively on civil rights and antisemitism, contributing to scholarly journals and outlets including The Wall Street Journal, The Washington Post, Newsweek, and Politico. He currently chairs the Executive Committee of the Federalist Society's Civil Rights Practice Group and serves on the editorial board of the Journal of Contemporary Antisemitism. He holds a B.A., magna cum laude, from Williams College and a J.D. from the University of California, Berkeley School of Law.