

Sarah Galica

Vice President – Transportation

Sarah has responsibility for both the domestic and international transportation for The Home Depot which includes global trade risk and compliance, transportation sourcing, carrier relations & compliance and daily operations. Sarah has over 25 years of experience in retail supply chain, the most recent 17 years with The Home Depot, where she has held leadership roles in supply chain strategy, inventory management, distribution operations, and reverse logistics before taking on the transportation responsibility in 2021. Prior to The Home Depot, Sarah spent time with Office Depot leading their supply chain development group, 5 years in business consulting with KPMG, and started her career with an international 3PL.

Sarah holds a BBA in Economics from The University of Georgia.