

Biography

Kevin DeGood is the Director of Infrastructure Policy at American progress. His work focuses on how highway, transit, aviation, and water policy affect America's global competitiveness, access to opportunity for diverse communities, and environmental sustainability.

Prior to joining American Progress, Kevin was the deputy policy director at Transportation for America, where he conducted research, provided legislative analysis, and advanced T4 campaign priorities with congressional leaders. In addition, Kevin served as the director of legislative affairs for Simon and Company, Inc. a federal affairs firm specializing in the representation of municipal governments and water and transit authorities. Kevin holds a master of public policy from the University of Southern California and a bachelor of arts from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.