Susan Parker Bodine is an environmental attorney with over 32 years of public and private experience with environmental public policy issues including water pollution control, wetlands issues, federal regulation of property (including federal regulation of agricultural, mining, and development uses), regulation of wastes, remediation of contaminated properties, prevention of chemical releases, mobile source air pollution, and water resources development (including the civil works program of the Army Corps of Engineers).

Ms. Bodine's experience includes negotiating consent orders and decrees to resolve allegations of environmental violations, negotiating environmental cleanup agreements, and establishing policies to encourage self-disclosures and private-sector investment in cleanups while serving as the Senate-confirmed Assistant Administrator of EPA's Office of Enforcement and Compliance Assurance from December 2017 to January 2021. Ms. Bodine also has established policy for the Superfund, Brownfields, and hazardous waste programs while serving as the Senate-confirmed Assistant Administrator of EPA's Office of Solid Waste and Emergency Response (now Office of Land and Emergency Management) from January 2006 to January 2009. Finally, Ms. Bodine drafted and negotiated federal legislation and conducted oversight over federal agencies during the 14 years she spent working for Congress, serving as the Chief Counsel of the Senate Committee on Environment and Public Works from 2015 to 2017 and as the staff director and senior counsel of the Subcommittee on Water Resources and Environment of the House Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure from 1995 to 2006.

Ms. Bodine has also practiced environmental law at Covington & Burling LLP and at Barnes & Thornburg LLP.

Ms. Bodine is a graduate of Princeton University and the University of Pennsylvania School of Law.
