

Henry J. Maier
President and Chief Executive Officer
FedEx Ground

Henry J. Maier is president and chief executive officer of FedEx Ground, the second largest operating unit of FedEx Corp. He assumed this position in June of 2013 and is responsible for the strategic direction and performance of the company. He also serves on the strategic management committee of FedEx Corp.

Henry has more than 35 years of experience in the transportation industry, including more than 25 years at FedEx companies. His career at FedEx includes a series of leadership positions in logistics, sales, marketing and communications, including Director of Sales and Vice President of Marketing and Communications. Immediately prior to his current position, Henry was an Executive Vice President of FedEx Ground, responsible for all strategic planning, contractor relations and corporate communications programs at the company.

Originally from Texas, Henry graduated from the University of Michigan with a bachelor's degree in Economics.