

Michael A. Terry
President and CEO
Indianapolis Public Transportation Corporation (IndyGo)

Mike Terry is a seasoned management professional with experience leading organizations at the executive level in both the public and private sectors. With his entrepreneurial approach to management, he has initiated programs in the areas of leadership, strategic utilization of human capital, efficiencies, management training, and service delivery systems.

Mike first joined IndyGo in 2003 in Business Development and assumed additional responsibilities as Vice President including planning, government and community relations, and customer service. In 2009 he was asked to lead the agency as President and Chief Executive Officer.

Mike received his Bachelor of Arts degree from DePauw University, Greencastle, IN, Master of Business Administration from Butler University, Indianapolis, IN, and is a graduate of the Indiana Governor's Executive Management School.

In addition to receiving recognition on a national level for his leadership in Management and Quality Service, Mike has presented and facilitated programs on diversity, cultural changes in corporate reorganization, executive coaching and supervisory skills, and reinventing service delivery.

Mike remains active in the community serving on boards and committees with various non-profit and faith-based organizations.
