

Andrew J. Black
President and CEO
Liquid Energy Pipeline Association (LEPA)

Andy Black is President and CEO of the Liquid Energy Pipeline Association, a Washington, DC-based trade association representing more than fifty pipeline companies and 95 percent of the liquid pipeline industry. LEPA members deliver crude oil, refined products like gasoline, diesel fuel and jet fuel, natural gas liquids such as propane and ethane, carbon dioxide, and other liquids.

Andy promotes LEPA's mission of responsible government policies, performance excellence, and public support for liquid pipelines. Andy has pursued LEPA's legislative and regulatory agenda with leaders of Congress, FERC, DOT PHMSA and their staffs. He has testified before Congressional committees on pipeline safety legislation, safety activities, pipeline expansion, border-crossing approvals, security, and propane supply issues.

Andy's previous work experience includes the House Energy and Commerce Committee, the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, and the El Paso Corporation.

Andy has a B.S. in Economics from Texas Christian University and an M.B.A. from the University of Maryland.
