

Emanuel A. Paris IV is Vice President of Alex E. Paris Contracting Company, Inc., which is located in Atlasburg, Pennsylvania. The company is a heavy civil and pipeline construction company that serves the mid-Atlantic region and provides a variety of heavy construction services. Alex E. Paris Contracting Company, Inc. was established in 1928 and is a family-owned business. Emanuel will be the fourth-generation owner of the business. The company employs over 400 people, and it supports many local charities.

Emanuel is a graduate of Duquesne University and holds a dual degree in business management and information systems management. After his time at Duquesne, he attended American University where he received his master's in business.

He is a member of several national and state construction associations, including the Pennsylvania Utility Contractors Association, the Marcellus Shale Coalition and the Distribution Contractors Association. He also served as chair to the Washington County Planning Commission. Emanuel is presently the President of the Avella Area School Board. He has remained a lifelong resident of Avella, Pennsylvania where he resides with his wife, Melody.