

Brad Sandt

President and CEO

“Because when organizations spend less time on technology, they can spend more time doing the things they do best for the people who matter most. We’re laser-focused on providing expert technology services and groundbreaking products to schools and communities – coast to coast.”

Something special is born when expertise melds with passion. For more than 20 years, Brad Sandt has been relentless in providing information technology systems that enhance schools and communities. As president of Menlo, Brad keeps K12itc and Civic ITC focused on providing expert technology and managed services to school districts and communities nationwide.

In 2018, Brad announced the establishment of Menlo to serve as an overarching holding company of K12itc while also opening the door for the launch of Civic ITC. Both subsidiaries provide IT infrastructure management, connectivity and maintenance for local communities and schools.

Highly regarded by peers, colleagues and clients, Brad has personally received countless awards and honors ranging from KC Connection’s “40 under 40,” Kansas City Business Journal’s “Next Gen Leader,” to being featured on the cover of CDW Solutions magazine. He also frequently speaks on IT infrastructure, security, and how to prepare for the new technologies of tomorrow.

Brad graduated from Park University with a Bachelor Degree in Management/Computer Information Systems.

--- Short Version---

Brad Sandt is the President & CEO of Menlo, a genius company providing expert technology services and groundbreaking products to schools and communities – coast to coast. The Kansas City-based company serves as the overarching holding company of K12itc and Civic ITC. Under Brad’s leadership, the company sets the standard for information technology systems in schools and communities. Brad brings more than 20 years of technology experience along with countless awards and recognitions to Menlo.