

John K. Roman, Ph.D. is a senior fellow in the Economics, Justice, and Society Department and directs the Center for Public Safety and Justice at NORC at the University of Chicago. Dr. Roman is an elected Fellow of the Academy of Experimental Criminology, chairs the Crime Trends Workgroup at the Council on Criminal Justice, chairs the Federal Data Infrastructure workgroup at Safe States Alliance, and is the co-Chair of the National Prevention Science Coalition. He is on the editorial board of Criminology, the Journal of Experimental Criminology, and Drug Court Review. Before NORC, he worked at the Urban Institute where he served in various positions, last as Senior Fellow. He served as an Associate Editor at the Journal of Experimental Criminology and taught in the graduate programs of criminology and government at the University of Pennsylvania and at Georgetown University's McCourt School of Public Policy. He holds a BA from Kenyon College, an MPP from the University of Michigan, and a PhD from the University of Maryland.