

AARON HEDLUND BIOGRAPHY

TAX DAY: EXPLORING THE ADVERSE EFFECTS OF HIGH TAXES AND A COMPLEX TAX CODE

APRIL 10, 2024

Aaron Hedlund is a tenured associate professor of economics in the Mitchell E. Daniels School of Business at Purdue University, a research fellow at the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, the Research Director at America First Policy Institute, and the Chief Economist at the Show-Me Institute. He also served as the Chief Domestic Economist and Senior Adviser at the White House Council of Economic Advisers from 2020 to 2021. Much of his research resides at the intersection of macroeconomics, finance, and real estate, with a heavy focus on policy and with special attention paid to the consequences of debt for the economy. Hedlund received his Ph.D. in economics from the University of Pennsylvania and his Bachelor's degree in economics and mathematics from Duke University. The views expressed are his own.