

Biography for Oren M. Cass

Oren Cass is a senior fellow at the Manhattan Institute, where he focuses on energy, the environment, and antipoverty policy. He has written about climate change for publications including the Wall Street Journal and Foreign Affairs, testified before House and Senate committees, briefed EPA and White House officials, spoken on campuses including MIT and the University of Texas, and appeared on national and international media including NPR and the BBC. An archive of his published work is available at <http://www.orencass.com>.

In 2011–12, Cass was the domestic policy director for Mitt Romney’s presidential campaign, where he shaped campaign policy and communication on issues from health care to energy to trade. Prior to joining the Manhattan Institute, Cass was a management consultant for Bain & Company in the firm’s Boston and New Delhi offices, where he advised global companies across a range of industries on implementing growth strategies and performance-improvement programs.

Cass holds a B.A. in political economy from Williams College and a J.D. from Harvard University, where he was an editor and the vice president of volume 125 of the Harvard Law Review.