

Carl Maxwell is the Senior Vice President of Public Policy at the Association of American Publishers. In this role, he works to ensure a robust US professional and scholarly publications system, and co-leads the environmental stewardship program.

Prior to joining AAP, Carl worked for nearly two decades at the American Chemical Society as a Manager of Advocacy on scientific policy, as well as sustainability. During his tenure at ACS he was involved in a number of legislative victories, including passage of American COMPETES I & II, CHIPS+Science Act, Frank R. Lautenberg Chemical Safety for the 21st Century Act, and the Sustainable Chemistry Research and Development Act. Carl started his career on Capitol Hill, working for both Democratic and Republican members of Congress, including Senator Susan Collins (R-ME) and former Rep. Jim Turner (D-TX).

Carl is a graduate of Bates College, Lewiston, ME, with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Political Science. He was born and raised in Austin, Texas and is an Eagle Scout.
