

Dr. Azadeh Khatibi is a fellowship-trained physician and surgeon. She holds a master's in Public Health and another in Health and Medical Sciences, both from University of California, Berkeley. She graduated Phi Beta Kappa from UCLA with Highest Departmental Honors in Molecular, Cell, Developmental Biology and completed medical school at UCSF. She is a physician-scientist, medical freedom and ethics advocate, as well as a mindfulness mentor.