

Sharon Silas is a Director in the Health Care team for the U.S. Government Accountability Office (GAO)—a nonpartisan and independent investigative arm of the U.S. Congress. Ms. Silas joined GAO in 2000 and has more than 20 years' experience working on a range of public policy issues at GAO. She currently leads the military and veterans' health care portfolio conducting a variety of reviews including health care provider quality of care at the Department of Defense and the Veterans Health Administration. She has also led work on military and veteran health care access issues, long-term care and mental health. Prior to coming to GAO, Ms. Silas held a number of positions in state government and the non-profit sector. Ms. Silas has an undergraduate degree in Anthropology and a Masters of Public Administration from the University of Washington.