

Jennifer Dane is a veteran of the United States Air Force who served as an intelligence analyst focused on geopolitical relations, terrorism, and threat vulnerability issues. Jennifer currently serves as the CEO of the Modern Military Association of America - the nation's largest non-profit organization working to advance fairness and equality for the LGBTQ military and veteran community. She currently serves as a founding board member of Partners in PROMISE, a Vet Policy Fellow, and an Executive Producer of the short film Red Skies.

She has earned a diversity and inclusion certificate from Cornell University, an associate degree in Intelligence Studies from the Community College of the Air Force, a Bachelor of Science in Criminal Justice from Bethel University, a Master of Arts in Criminal Justice from Arizona State University, Master of Arts in Educational Policy from The Ohio State University.

Jennifer also has a wide range of diversity, equity, and inclusion, consultancy and training experience having worked with the U.S. Department of Defense, the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs, Uber, Synchrony, Capgemini, HBO Max, NBCComcast, the National Diversity Council, Hilton, and various organizations and people. She is passionate about her commitment to leaving the world a better place than it was before she was born.

Jennifer has a fiancée named Megan and a son named Brayden (11 years old). She lives with two goldendoodles, Sasha and Elle, and a mischievous black cat named, Scottsdale.

