

Anthony M. Stazzone, M.D., MBA, FACP

Chief Medical Officer, VA MidSouth Healthcare Network

Dr. Anthony M. Stazzone is the Chief Medical Officer for VA MidSouth Healthcare Network (VISN 9). He is the Chief Executive over clinical operations and formulates the strategic direction for an integrated healthcare delivery system serving over 375,000 Veterans; comprised of five Joint Commission accredited medical centers located in Kentucky and Tennessee. Additionally, VISN 9 medical centers supports 63 community outpatient clinics, three community living centers, and a network of contract providers. The Network is a vital link to the education and training of area healthcare professionals through its affiliation with eight medical schools.

Dr. Stazzone started his career in private practice with the Carondelet Medical Group and transitioned to the University of Arizona Medical Center for 12 years, where he was Associate Professor of Clinical Medicine and the Chief of Staff-elect.

Dr. Stazzone joined the Southern Arizona VA Health Care System in Tucson, Arizona where he served as the Chief of Staff and previously as the Chief of Primary Care. He has conducted clinical research in Egypt, Brazil, and Italy as well as medical mission work in Haiti and the Dominican Republic. Dr. Stazzone shares dual citizenship with the United States and Italy. He is fluent in American Sign Language and Italian. He is a former player for the University of Arizona and Tucson Magpies Rugby Football Teams.

Dr. Stazzone received his Medical Degree at the University of Arizona, School of Medicine in 1998, and completed his Residency at the Medical University of South Carolina, Charleston, SC. He is Board Certified in Internal Medicine and a Fellow of the American College of Physicians. Dr. Stazzone also holds a Master's in Business Administration from the Eller College of Management. Dr. Stazzone and his wife reside in Brentwood, Tennessee with their two children.