Bio

House Committee on Veterans Affairs

March 26, 2025

Patricia Krisfalusy-Maxon of West Brownsville in Washington County, Pennsylvania, has spent years of her life advocating for the families of Veterans. She earned a B.S. in Human Resources Management as well as associate's degrees in both Specialized Business/Paralegal and Business Administration from PennWest California, formerly California University of Pennsylvania. She retired from public service where she spent almost 28 years in county government. Additionally, she served her community by being the only female Borough Council President and being an active member of her local school board. She continues to contribute to her community by participating in her local planning committee.

Mrs. Krisfalusy-Maxon is very family-oriented, proud mother of three sons, nine grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren. She has two sisters, Lisa and Cindy and two deceased brothers, Chuck and Dennis Krisfalusy, whose legacy inspired her to start advocating for Veterans.
