

Travis Dalton
President and General Manager, Cerner Government Services

Meet Travis

As the president and general manager of Cerner Government Services, Travis Dalton focuses on all aspects of business development, delivery and client relationships for Cerner's federal government business.

He positively impacts Cerner through his ability to build strong relationships and deliver value for Cerner clients.

Leadership experience

Since joining Cerner in 2001, Travis has successfully led a number of key client engagements including one of the first full computerized physician order entry (CPOE) implementations, oversight to the West and Canada's consulting practice management and input into the development of methodologies and consulting practices.

In 2010 his responsibilities expanded to include consulting and operations for Cerner's Investor Owned division which includes some of Cerner's largest and most complex clients including Tenet Healthcare, HCA, HealthSouth, UHS, IASIS and Community Health. He has overseen the successful implementations at over 400 facilities in the last five years, including 71 Tenet facilities.

Accomplishments

Under his leadership of the Federal division, which began in 2012, Travis was responsible for the successful strategy and response to the $4.3 billion Department of Defense's Defense Healthcare Management Systems Modernization (DHMSM) award. He continues to oversee the client, partnership relations and delivery team working on the DHMSM program. Travis also negotiated the $10 billion VA IDIQ and has the overall accountability for relationship, oversight and delivery of the VA ERHM program.

Travis has a bachelor's degree in finance from Wright State University and a Master of Public Administration from The Ohio State University.

Travis is a member of the American College of Healthcare Executives (ACHE), Healthcare Information and Management Systems Society (HIMSS) and other professional and leadership organizations.
