

Dr. Stephen Schleicher, MD, MBA [Sch-lyker]
Chief Medical Officer, Tennessee Oncology

Dr. Stephen Schleicher is a medical oncologist practicing in Lebanon, TN. Dr. Schleicher completed his medical training at Vanderbilt under a full academic scholarship, followed by a joint internal medicine residency and fully funded MBA at Harvard. He subsequently completed oncology fellowship at Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center in New York before moving back to his hometown in Nashville, TN.

Dr. Schleicher now practices as a breast cancer medical oncologist and also serves as Chief Medical Officer at Tennessee Oncology, a large community oncology practice of over 110 physicians and over 95 nurse practitioners. Dr. Schleicher also previously served as President of the Tennessee State Oncology Society, and currently serves as a board member and executive committee member at the Community Oncology Alliance.