

Mr. Richard Morello
Chief Executive Officer, CND Life Sciences

Rick Morello joined CND Life Sciences as CEO in early 2020 and brings over 25 years of experience with health and life sciences companies, having served in senior executive roles for medical device, digital health, and diagnostics firms. Before joining CND, Rick was the Global President of Life Sciences at Aptus Health, a former subsidiary of Merck, Inc. (acquired by WebMD) and CEO of Plasma Surgical, an innovative medical device company with technology used around the world for complex, tissue-sparing procedures. Rick began his career in strategy consulting, rising to Partner at Mercer Management Consulting (now part of Oliver Wyman), where he helped build the Health & Life Sciences Practice and managed large biopharma and diagnostics clients.

A Kellogg MBA and graduate of the University of Virginia, Rick also founded and helped grow three nonprofit organizations that have raised nearly $100 million in the last decade to fulfill health and social impact missions, including Family Reach Foundation, which is working with the Biden Administration's Cancer Moonshot Initiative to address the financial burden of cancer on patients and families.
