

Katie Wechsler

Co-Executive Director, Consumer First Coalition

Biography

Ms. Wechsler is co-executive director of the Consumer First Coalition, along with Doyle Bartlett of Gray Robinson. The Coalition is a group of financial services companies that are combatting new forms of fraud in financial services, including synthetic identity fraud and credit repair fraud.

Ms. Wechsler is a partner at Sivon, Natter & Wechsler, P.C., a boutique law firm in Washington, D.C. that specializes in banking and financial services law and regulation. She helps her clients on federal regulatory matters including analyzing and commenting on proposed regulations, assessing the impact of new or proposed laws and regulations on their business, and developing positions on public policy matters.

Ms. Wechsler also serves as of counsel in the international law firm of Squire Patton Boggs, where she assists clients on bank regulatory applications and compliance matters.

Previously, Ms. Wechsler was counsel and associate director of government affairs for the Housing Policy Council. She received her law degree from The George Washington University Law School and is admitted to practice in D.C.